

NEWS RELEASE: Feb. 14, 2009

Dateline: Conway, Arkansas

Larry Nichols, best known for fighting the Clinton's during his administration, has released a short video clip that is showing on YouTube.com.

In this video Nichols is calling on American gangs to stop the spread of the paramilitary Mexican gangs that are pouring in from our southern borders. Nichols very carefully warns that he is not for violence in any way but they must protect their turfs.

Newly released, it has already spawned a death threat from a supposed Hispanic gang in Los Angeles, California. While the seriousness of the threat is suspect at this time, the video is sure to stimulate more harassment.

Nichols says, "The reason for this video is to simply point out the seriousness of the paramilitary gangs taking over our streets. And with the failure of our Government to stop this scourge we're left with a hard reality that our American Gangs may very well be our first and last line of defense. While I am not oblivious to the potential for me, there will never be a day for fear of Political Correctness or threats on my life that will prevent me saying that which I believe to be true".

There will be more to come, and will be posted in the channel.
